

Joining the Wiki

Joining the wiki is not hard; however, it can become quite frustrating if you miss even one step of the process. If you are having trouble, try following the directions below:

Step 1

Click the “Request Access” button on the “Front Page.”

Step 2

Enter email address, confirm, and send request to administrator.

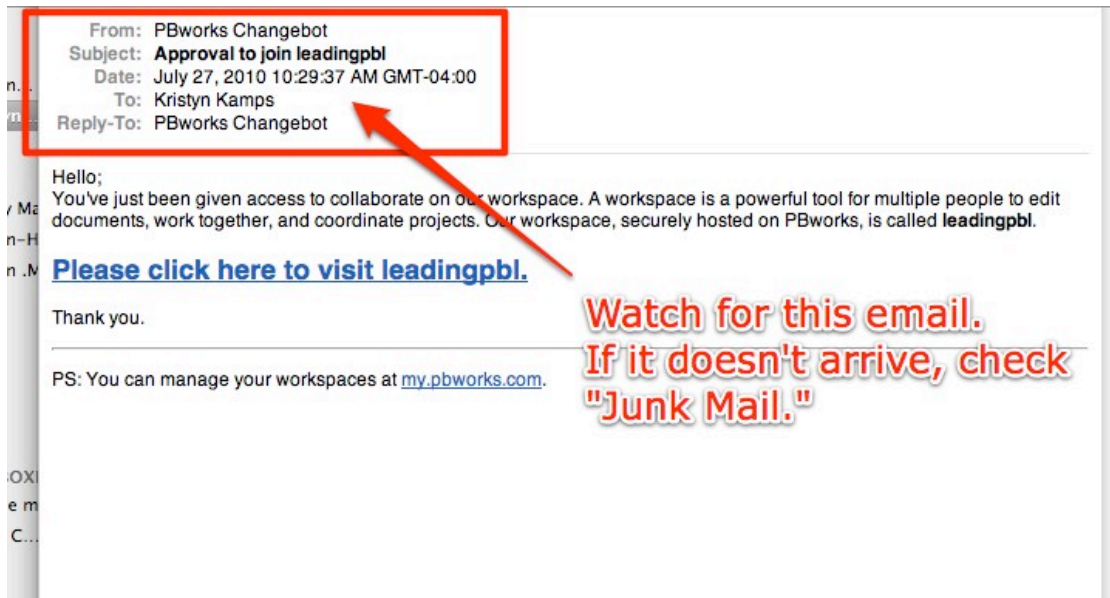

A screenshot of the 'Request access to www.leadingpbl.com' form. The form has three main sections: 'Your email address' with a text input field, 'Message (optional)' with a text area, and a confirmation section. The confirmation section has a text input field with the instruction 'Confirm by entering the letter K here' and a 'Send to administrator' button. Three numbered instructions are overlaid on the form: '1. Enter your email address' with an arrow pointing to the email field, '2. Enter the letter EXACTLY as it appears' with an arrow pointing to the confirmation field, and '3. Click "Send"' with an arrow pointing to the 'Send to administrator' button.

Step 3

An administrator will confirm your request for access as soon as it is seen.

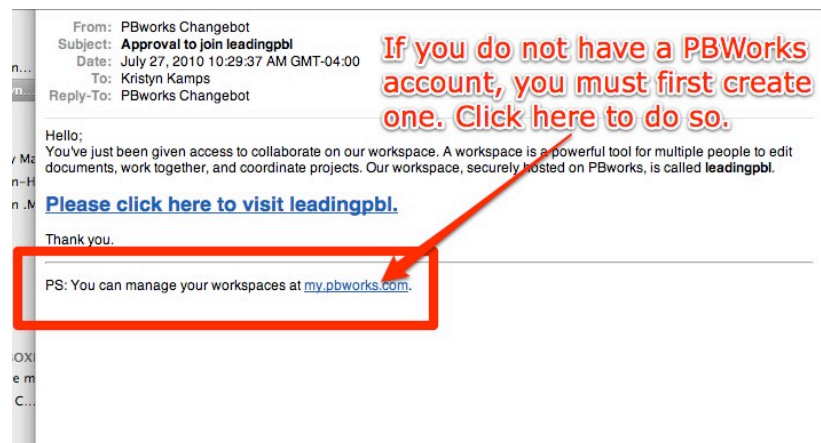

Step 4

Watch for your approval email. If it does not come in a reasonable amount of time, check your "Junk Mail" to see if it was routed there. If you have a PBworks account already, click the large link in the email called, "Please click here to visit leadingpbl." If you do not have a PBworks account, continue on to "Step 5" below.

Step 5

If you do not have a PBWorks account, before you can proceed to the <http://leadingpbl.org> website, you will have to create an account. Click the link located after the "PS" in your approval email. The link is called "my.pbworks.com."

Step 6

The "my.pbworks.com" link brings you to the log in screen. Notice the "No account? Sign up!" link below the "Please log in" heading. Click "Sign up!" to create an account.
